process of doing. Give me an example of one of the identifiable geographic markings that you followed when you drew your map.

SENATOR BURLING: Well, you can follow markings like streets and precincts like we've already talked about.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: What about barriers? Were there any barriers that you ignored in drawing a district, a barrier that might be a natural separation item between elements in that district? Did you look for any of those?

SENATOR BURLING: Yes.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Did you find any?

SENATOR BURLING: Not that I thought were significant.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Give me an example of one you found that you thought was not significant.

SENATOR BURLING: Well, I'd have to go back and look at the record. I can't pull it off the top of my head, but I remember doing that.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Senator Burling, you said you did not spend a lot of time drawing the Omaha districts. Is that more or less what you said?

SENATOR BURLING: That's true.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Is it that you thought they were not important?

SENATOR BURLING: No.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Are you aware that there has been much discussion of the need to create a new district in the Omaha area? Are you aware of that discussion?
